Miscellaneous Paragraphs

[illegible] Jones of Lebanon Linn county has been appointed postmaster at that place.

The total loss of lives in the present war, by the Confederates, is estimated by the Savannah Georgia Republican at over 100,000.

The trial trip of the new iron clad ram and war ship Passaic, which is an improvement on the Monitor proves her to be a success. She was planned by Capt Ericsson.

A tablespoonful of salt dissolved in half a tumbler of water and used as a gargle, is said to be an infallible recipe for hoarseness and a sore throat.

The Washington Statesman, ended its first year of publication on the 13th of December. It is a sterling paper and a success in a pecuniary point of view.

'When a woman,' says Mrs Partington, 'has once married with a congealing heart, and one that beats responsible to her own, she will never want to enter into the maritime state again.'

The negro troops at Hilton Head, lately made an excursion to the main land, and were briskly engaged by some Confederate troops. They manifested great steadiness it is said.

The people of Minnesota are intensely hostile towards the Indian prisoners under the charge of Gen Pope. About the first of this month, some citizens attempted to force the guard and kill the Indians. They were captured by the guard and paroled.

If our young lady friends would like to know what will take off tan and sunburn, let them take a handful of bran, pour a quart of boiling water on it, let it stand one hour, then strain. When cold put to it a pint of bay rum. Bottle and use it when needed.

Andrew Johnson, of Tennessee, has communicated to Mr. Lincoln his belief that Gen. Buell was not in earnest in fighting the Confederates and would not take the offensive, even when he had great superiority of force.

Gen Weitzel, commanding the Reserve Brigade of Gen Butler's Department, had a sharp engagement with the rebels on the Bayou Lafourche on the 29th of October. The Union troops drove the chivalry with ease and inflicted heavy loss upon them. Their commander, Col McPheeter, was slain.

The out-and out Abolitionists of St. Louis, are called 'Charcoals.' The Moderates, who are the supporters of Frank Blair, are called 'Claybanks.' St Louis is much noted for giving slang names to political parties. During the last Presidential canvass the friends of Edward Bates were called Pro Bates men. They retorted by calling his opponents Reprobates.

A correspondent of the Maryville Appeal, writing from New York, insists that, whatever cause may be alleged for the recent Democratic successes, the real cause is popular discontent with the slow progress made in crushing rebellion, not the growth of a disposition favoring dishonorable peace on the Wood and Van Buren basis.

Bunch, the British consul at Charleston, estimates the amount of cotton held by the rebels at 3 950,000 bales. At the present enormous price for cotton this would amount to $1 000,000,000. But if it were thrown upon the markets of the world at once, it would probably fall to the old average of about ten cents a pound, giving a total of $200,000,000.

IN GOODLY COMPANY.—The Corvallis Union still lives. It is distributed by a 'Cayuse Express,' and an occasional copy has reached us. In speaking of the opposition manifested by certain British statesmen to our Revolutionary War it by innuendo places itself in the same position now, that those men occupied then. The following extract shows that Malone is to be credited with the same motives that controled the British Liberals:

Burke, Fox, Pitt and other great lights of the English Parliament lived under the hallucination that they might and it was their duty to oppose the English ministry in their insane policy towards the American Colonies, without drawing upon themselves the suspicion of being disloyal to the English Government, and history has proved that they were its firmest friends, and for that reason, they were bitterly opposed to the Administration of Lord North.

SATURDAY MORNING DEC 20 186_

The North-West and the War

Looking solely to the local interests of a section, when great national issues are pending, is not justifiable We notice a feature in the late political canvass in the West that has not been made public on this coast but which is of great importance in making up our minds in regard to passing events We refer to the manner in which local interests were made to subserve the cause of the Democracy in the West

It will be remembered that when General Grant moved South last Spring the enthusiasm of the West was roused to the highest pitch During the Summer the West responded to the call upon her for men with a degree of unanimity never surpassed In the States of Ohio, Kentucky Indiana Iowa Wisconsin, Minnesota and Missouri the quota of Three Years' men and Nine Months' men was filled up in the first fifteen days of August In the first eleven days of August the State of Illinois raised considerably over eight hundred military companies, containing more than 70 000 men, or 20,000 more than were asked of her At no time have the States enumerated been slack in their devotion to the Union The only States in the East that have shown so much alacrity are Massachusetts Maine and Pennsylvania New York yet lacks tens of thousands of filling her quota This state of things has been made to work on the popular mind, as shown below

The means of communication between the East and West are, in part, artificial, between the West and South they are natural The grain trade to the East is when there is a foreign demand, but the trade in provisions to the South is permanent, increasing and lucrative. It is almost impossible to estimate it as it is mostly carried on by flat boats, or "broad-horns" as they are called there In all, this trade amounted, probably, to $30, 000,000 a year, before the war It was the financial life-blood of the West If the Mississippi should be closed, the trade in provisions could be forced over land, on railroad lines owned largely by the East and the trade to the South be entirely stopped This year the trade in provisions to Europe has been very active, and has gone over the overland means of transportation

Here is where the Democrats made capital The sole obstacle to the opening of the Mississippi was the rebel force at Vicksburg Why was not that place taken? Why was the Western army checked in its full career to victory? Why was the notorious swindling in cotton tolerated when the whole force of the army was needed in the field? These were the questions that the "Copperheads" put to the people of the Ohio and Mississippi valleys, and the effect may be seen in the elections

It is not because the people have grown cold in the cause of the Union The Emancipation policy did not change public opinion, but it was to get a change of policy that would insure the navigation of the Mississippi river, and thus enable the West to breathe again, and pay her proportion of the national burthens as well as fight her share of the nation's battles Some few men crept into Congress on the prevailing excitement who are not true to the cause, but the body of the Western Congressmen are for the War, the Constitution and the Union

Telegraph Extension—The Mountaineer advocates the extension of the telegraph line from this place to Dalles, as soon as the wire is stretched from here to Yreka The subject having been broached, a correspondent of the Mountaineer proposed to meet the citizens of the place and give them some practical hints in regard to its construction The line marked out for the building of the telegraph is pretty much the same as that to be taken for the proposed wagon road from here to Dalles It is feasible, and the materials on the line are abundant The wire can be cheaply delivered anywhere along the line The distance is probably about ninety miles It must prove a great benefit to the upper Columbia, when completed

All for the best—It was feared that the appointment of Mons Drouyn de l'Huys to the position of French Minister of Foreign Affairs, would be prejudicial to the American national interest It has transpired that he is particularly hostile to the Confederate cause, and desires the perpetuation of the American Union His predecessor although of liberal sentiments, held to the contrary opinion and was the active friend of the Confederates. It may be possible that his removal was partly on this account

A dispatch from Louisville of the 6th of December, says The condition of affairs in that portion of Southern Kentucky lying between the Cumberland and Tennessee rivers, continues to be most deplorable This district embraces Crittenden Caldwell Lyon and Trigg counties The guerrillas and robbers have undisputed sway The country is being stripped by these scoundrels A number of Union citizens have been driven from their homes Their houses are watched by armed assassins, ready to dispose of them whenever they return All laws are set at defiance by these robber gangs

Not a Parallel—The British Colonist of the 8th inst in speaking of the American war says:

America ... England for allowing supplies to leave her shores for the Cotton States They consider it a great crime But did not the States assist Russia during the Crimean war And we ask, if British America were in rebellion tomorrow would not the press and people of the States ... the best ... No answer to the latter question is required It is plain ... why should England ... in the present instance, ... look to the promotion of her own interests and ... the outcry in the States about supplying ... the Confederates is only based on the fact that it is against northern interests though if the truth were known, the North benefits more from England's neutrality by far than the South

The Americans did not interfere with the blockade of Russian ports They did not permit vessels to be fitted out in their ports against British or French commerce They did not deny any of the belligerents the right of asylum They did not establish a rule by which British or French cruisers were detained for twenty four hours in port while Russian war ships were permitted to depart from that same port and allowed to put to sea and destroy their merchant men in sight of the harbor, as has been done by the British authorities They never made a rule and then allowed it to be broken to the advantage of England's enemies as was the case at Gibraltar where the pirate Sumter overstayed her privilege of twenty four hours by some six months The Americans furnished a large proportion of the transports for the Crimean expedition The British and French hired them simply because the American ships were the fastest and best for their purposes They were not used to run a blockade, and their owners were to be indemnified in case they were lost Had the Russians captured an American ship thus employed, our Government would have had nothing to say In short, the Americans were honestly neutral on the occasion referred to, but wanted the Russians to win and the British are now paying us back by comforting the Confederates Some of our American cotemporaries think it is very wrong on the part of England to act so May be it is but we will have our turn to laugh afterwhile Every dog must have his day We will venture the prediction, for the benefit of the Colonist, that in twenty years from to day the American flag will have stars on it to correspond with the British Colonies of the North Pacific The editor of that journal will then be an American sovereign instead of being the subject of a sovereign

Late Eastern News

Washington December 10th—It is stated positively that the President has sent forward an order directing that thirty-nine of the condemned Minnesota Indians, specifically named, shall be hanged

New York, December 10th—The Creole, from New Orleans on November 29th brings a report that the rebels were preparing to attack our gunboats at Galveston with five heavily armed river steamers, also, about 5,000 troops intend coming down under cover of night to aid in the attack Magruder commands the rebels there

New Orleans letters state that General Butler has extended his confiscation order to the entire State of Louisiana west of the Mississippi, except the parishes of New Orleans, St Bernard and Plaquemines

The French had occupied Tampico without opposition. The Mexicans had previously dismantled the forts General Forey was still at Orizaba It was reported that a part of his forces was in motion for Puebla

Louisville December 9th—Three thousand rebel cavalry supposed to be under Forrest, were at Clarksville, Tennessee, to-day It is supposed their intention is to make another raid into Kentucky or a dash on Fort Donelson

Cincinnati Dec 10—An arrival from upper East Tennessee reports that all the available troops in that section were ordered to Tullahoma and Murfreesboro, Tennessee, An order had also been issued for all the cavalry in East Tennessee to report at Knoxville to be dismounted

The rebel newspapers say that their grand stand is to be made at Tullahoma and that only a small force has been thrown out at Murfreesboro as a feint to check the Federal forces Our informant also says that the inhabitants of East Tennessee are not responding very readily to the conscript law, and that the Confederates just now have too much business on hand to enforce it. Thousands of Union men are hiding in the mountains, determined to suffer any hardships and exposure before they will be forced into the rebel ranks

Latest from Europe

New York Dec 10—The steamer Hansa from Southampton November 29th has arrived

La Patrie states that Russia has virtually intimated to England and France that she will not be prepared to recognize Prince Alfred as King of Greece

The Constitutionnel denies that France sent a second note to England and Russia for mediation in American affairs

A Liverpool paper says that Captain Maury has proceeded to St Petersburg as Commissioner from the Confederacy

Notice—The office of the Assistant Treasurer of the United States was robbed of the certificates of national indebtedness, of the denomination of $5,000 from numbers 14 501 to 15,000 inclusive The certificates were blank Mr Spinner's telegram from Washington under date of the 8th of December, says A package of five thousand (5 000) dollars certificates indebtedness numbers printed under the denominational figures five thousand dollars in red from 14,501 to 15 000 inclusive was lost from this office The numbers of genuine certificates are written in red over the denominational figures 5 000 dollars

It is strange that men will take up the names of men who have been tried and found wanting and attempt to galvanize them as Presidential candidates With all respect for the honesty of Gen McClellan, does it not look as if he like Fremont, bases his claims on public favor, on the fact that he failed in his military schemes? The new rule appears to be that an unsuccessful General must make a good President and until a man fails in his military ambition he cannot be elected to civil office

CITY.

The MORNING OREGONIAN has a larger SUBSCRIPTION LIST than any other Daily published in this City

PRIVATE ENTERPRISE.—Having tired of waiting for the mud in the streets to move itself, several business men and property holders have taken the work in hand and are doing something around in spots towards disposing of it. For reasons which we have already set forth the City Council has no power to move in this matter without involving the City in indefinite expense. They might declare mud a nuisance and then force the removal of it but it is a doubtful expedient. The enterprise of private citizens appears to be all that we have to depend up on to keep the streets passable. We notice localities where it will be next to impossible for the fire-engines to be dragged in case of a fire breaking out. When some who are so close about the condition of the streets see a fire in their neighborhood, they will may be, wish they had spent a few dollars in cleaning the streets.

Letter from Th. Starr King

The following letter from the Rev Thomas Starr King explains itself. It may not be inappropriate to remark that, while many counties of this State have generously responded to the call for assistance to the Sanitary Fund, others have almost entirely neglected to do their duty in regard to it. We hope to see an improvement in this respect, and when the final account is made up, that none will be found to have been slack in their donations.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec 9, 1862.

HON. AMORY HOLBROOK,

DEAR SIR:—In a long dispatch, which I received from Dr. Bellows by Overland Telegraph to-day, he includes the following message for you: "Please to notify Amory Holbrook, Portland, Oregon, that his last remittance of twenty-five hundred and sixty dollars is received, and that his wonderful success moves our [illegible] admiration for him and Oregon."

I hasten to discharge the trust. Oregon has already sent to the Sanitary Commission more than I could have believed, six months ago, that the whole Pacific Coast could raise. We shall send twenty thousand dollars by the [illegible] of the eleventh. The account will then stand about four hundred and sixty thousand dollars to the credit of the Pacific. It will easily reach five hundred thousand. Is it not a privilege to be connected with such a national bounty?

Respectfully and sincerely yours,
TH. STARR KING

Influenza and Bronchitis.—Thousands [illegible] from these complaints are ignorant of the fact that DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM is peculiarly adapted to their cure. A few days use of it being [illegible] sufficient to subdue the cough and remove every symptom.

[illegible] Agents for the Pacific Coast,
REDINGTON & CO.,
416 and 418 Front street, San Francisco

[illegible] The sudden changes of our climate are sources of PULMONARY, BRONCHIAL and ASTHMATIC AFFECTIONS. Experience having proved that simple remedies often act speedily and certainly when taken in the early stages of the disease, recourse should at once be had to Brown's Bronchial Troches, or Lozenges, let the Cold, Cough, or Irritation of the Throat be ever so slight, as by this precaution a more serious attack may be effectually warded off. PUBLIC SPEAKERS and SINGERS will find them effectual for clearing and strengthening the voice. See advertisement. dec16daw3m

White's Patent Lever Trusses.—These [illegible] are recommended to the public as the best ever [illegible]. The principle is new and different from any other. The Pad works over a Knuckle giving it a circular UPWARD and UPWARD motion, thus being able to support the rupture with half the pressure required by other [illegible]. The pain consequent upon heavy pressure is thereby obviated. [illegible] instruments will not rust and are the lightest most durable and most cleanly of all others. They can be [illegible]. Many persons have been cured by the use of ruptures of several years standing.

This medicine has been used in private practice for many years with great success. Indeed in no instance has it failed to effect a speedy cure in Ague especially one bottle having been found sufficient in most cases and in none are more than two bottles required.

A great number of testimonials could be given to verify [illegible] but the proprietor prefers relying upon the merits of the medicine alone. A cure is guaranteed in [illegible] case out of ten.

ITALIAN CRISIS.—The London correspondent of the San Francisco Evening Bulletin gives his views of the probable effect of the change of Ministry in France on the Italian question

The removal of Mr Thouvenel from the direction of Foreign Affairs in the French Cabinet and the appointment of M Drouyn de l'Huys in his stead—all of which has been duly notified in the Moniteur—has opened a new flood of speculation in connection with the Roman question Difficult as it always is to guess the drift of Louis Napoleon's policy, it is impossible to avoid arriving at certain conclusions in connection with the ominous change just referred to. Mr Thouvenel was distinctly recognized as a Minister opposed to Ultramontane pretensions and was honorably known as a statesman who had done his [illegible] to introduce reform into the Papal Government So long, therefore as the Emperor retained his services, there remained some ground for hope that the head of the French Empire would at least keep the Italian question a[illegible] one [illegible] might be induced to withdraw his protectorate from a [illegible] that made no better use of it than to perpetuate abuses which he himself denounced as infamous But with the appointment of M Drouyn de l'Huys to the foreign portfolio of France the hopes of the Italian party vanish The [illegible] Foreign Secretary is known as a man who is strenuously opposed to the creation of a powerful Italian Kingdom from a belief that it would diminish the prestige and standing of France Louis Napoleon must feel keenly the ridicule with which his failure at Villafranca has covered him in the eyes of Europe The Dukes whose possessions he guaranteed by that famous treaty are nowhere Naples has fallen before an inroad of red shirt volunteers—fallen too in spite of the diversion he made in its favor at Gaeta The Pope is despoiled of all his dominions save Rome and its immediate surroundings and Victor Emanuel with 20,000,000 of subjects to back him is loudly demanding the surrender of the capital The line must be drawn somewhere and Louis Napoleon has for the present apparently decided that it should be drawn at the point of France continuing the protectorate of the Pope How long he may remain of that way of thinking remains to be seen and must depend much upon [illegible] of events —for that is a logic to which even the inscrutable tenant of the Tuilleries has often been compelled to bow In the mean time the change in Paris has produced an immense sensation in Italy and rumors reach us of the resignation of Ratazzi and of the meeting of Ministers at Turin to deliberate on the grave state of affairs A r[illegible] is likewise afloat of Cardinal Antonelli and Monsignor de Merode having retired from the Papal Council and should it prove true we may soon begin to indulge the hope that Louis Napoleon has actually succeeded in convincing the Holy Father that a change in his system of government has become absolutely necessary

The Markets.

Commercial advices from San Francisco to the 9th inst state that there is a slight advance in flour choice brands had reached $7 and country brands $6 50 @ $6 Wheat was in demand at $1 65 @ $1 70 for choice Shipments of flour and grain to Liverpool have commenced and [illegible] favorable chance is now presented for the Willamette farmers to send down their produce As yet there have been no receipts of produce from above but it is hoped that the rains will raise the river to a stage that will admit of steamboating The demand for provisions is slacking The [illegible] will note important changes in our quotations

[illegible]

Southern Cavalry.—A letter dated [illegible] vember [illegible] from Bolivar, Tennessee, to the Chicago Journal gives the following account of the conduct of two regiments of Southern cavalry, now in Gen Grant's army

General Grant has received [illegible] regiments of cavalry enlisted from [illegible] its present theater of action. They [illegible] ment to the old flag [illegible] with the Southern Confederacy [illegible] with whom they [illegible] and studied neutrality

The bounds of this rebellion [illegible] friends they must [illegible] must suffer [illegible] ed these [illegible] ed they suffered [illegible] had their heads [illegible] cropped Outrage [illegible] —truer to their higher [illegible] never rested until by stealth or [illegible] secured their lives Burning with revenge they eagerly sought the recruiting [illegible] regiments under the old flag

Our army had waited long [illegible] to go forward and [illegible] restoration of peace [illegible] regiments were among the number [illegible] for the advance As the army [illegible] sentiments of every [illegible] or true They spared [illegible] minded men but dealt [illegible] tions of rebels They razed the houses, burnt the cotton fields and set the iron heel of power upon the necks of traitors It is presumed that [illegible] army has passed presents such a scene [illegible] this place to La Grange When they were [illegible] and well drilled, they said to [illegible] fellows are too good humored [illegible] try nor the men you have [illegible] Secesh devils is hotter and [illegible] them, and know what [illegible] you how to treat them [illegible] fore they can respect you

When the movement commenced [illegible] straggled from the ranks and commenced [illegible] They set the torch to houses [illegible] outbuildings [illegible] cotton fields ripe for the pickers It cannot be expected that our own men goaded by the loss of comrades by wounds and privations endured abstained wholly from partaking in these acts The officers did not connive at their work, but in the excitement of the moment were unable to restrain the men.

The longer our Western boys remain in the field the more formidable do they become Victorious in every field they cease to respect an embittered and vagabond foe Their love of country knows no abatement and their determination is to wipe out the last vestige of rebellion in the valley of the Mississippi

I might say something of future plans and movements, but that would not promote any good work The friends of the Union may rest assured that we have a force equal to any emergency, and they are moving like an avalanche southward

Italian Crisis.—The London correspondent of the San Francisco Evening Bulletin gives his views of the probable effect of the change of Ministry in France on the Italian question

The removal of Mr Thouvenel from the direction of Foreign Affairs in the French Cabinet, and the appointment of M Drouyn de l'Huys in his stead—all of which has been duly notified in the Moniteur—has opened a new flood of speculation in connection with the Roman question Difficult as it always is to guess the drift of Louis Napoleon's policy, it is impossible to avoid arriving at certain conclusions in connection with the ominous change just referred to Mr Thouvenel was distinctly recognized as a Minister opposed to Ultramontane pretensions and was honorably known as a statesman who had done his utmost to introduce reform into the Papal Government So long therefore as the Emperor retained his services, there remained some ground for hope that the head of the French Empire would at least keep the Italian question an open one, and might be induced to withdraw his protectorate from a power that made no better use of it than to perpetuate abuses which he himself denounced as infamous. But with the appointment of M Drouyn de l'Huys to the foreign portfolio of France the hopes of the Italian party vanish. The new Foreign Secretary is known as a man who is strenuously opposed to the creation of a powerful Italian Kingdom from a belief that it would diminish the prestige and standing of France. Louis Napoleon must feel keenly the ridicule with which his failure at Villafranca has covered him in the eyes of Europe The Dukes, whose possessions he guaranteed by that famous treaty are nowhere, Naples has fallen before an inroad of red shirt volunteers—fallen too, in spite of the diversion he made in its favor at Gaeta. The Pope is despoiled of all his dominions save Rome and its immediate surroundings and Victor Emanuel with 20,000,000 of subjects to back him is loudly demanding the surrender of the capital The line must be drawn somewhere, and Louis Napoleon has for the present apparently decided that it should be drawn at the point of France continuing the protectorate of the Pope How long he may remain of that way of thinking remains to be seen, and must depend much upon the inexorable logic of events"—for that is a logic to which even the inscrutable tenant of the Tuilleries has often been compelled to bow In the meantime the change in Paris has produced an immense sensation in Italy and rumors reach us of the resignation of Ratazzi, and of the meeting of Ministers at Turin to deliberate on the grave state of affairs A rumor is likewise afloat of Cardinal Antonelli and Monsignor de Merode having retired from the Papal Council and should that prove true we may soon begin to indulge the hope that Louis Napoleon has actually succeeded in convincing the Holy Father that a change in his system of government has become absolutely necessary

The Markets.

Commercial advices from San Francisco to the 9th inst state that there is a slight advance in flour choice brands had reached $7 and country brands $5 60 @ $6. Wheat was in demand at $1 60 @ $1 70 for choice Shipments of flour and grain to Liverpool have commenced and a favorable chance is now presented for the Willamette farmers to send down their produce As yet there have been no receipts of produce from above but it is hoped that the rains will raise the river to a stage that will admit of steamboating The demand for provisions is slacking The reader will note important changes in our quotations
